History Of Browning Street's Most Beautiful Building

THE COUNTY HOTEL

The County Hotel building was originally constructed in 1909 for the Hawke's Bay County. It is now the only example of Victorian-Edwardian classical style that survived the devastating 1931 Napier earthquake.

The building remained as the traditional location of the Hawke's Bay County Council administration until 1987, when the need for greater space forced the council to new premises in Hastings. The New Zealand Shipping Company Limited, Robert Dobson & Co. Accountants, & the former Napier Municipal Electricity Department have also been housed within these walls.

During 1993 restoration work began with an aim to return the building to its former glory & to transform it into a hotel of character, distinction & charm. Original Edwardian Gothic features with Art Deco influences have been lovingly preserved, including the high ceilings, wood panelling & fine detailing transforming the former County Council building into a boutique hotel & popular restaurant.

Today the County Hotel has earned a reputation with a multi-award winning Restaurant & a 5 star experience due to unsurpassed service, cuisine & accommodation in an exclusive ambience. The County Hotel is a unique dimension in elegance & is seen to be the flagship building of Napier's Art Deco heritage & is also the proud winner of the Art Deco Trust Supreme Award.
